Factors Affecting Wool Yields

Lethbridge Experimental Station
Weekly Letter

Despite the relatively unenthusiastic prices which have existed for wool for several years, the sheep producers are still vitally interested in factors which affect the yield of wool from their sheep. The Experimental Station at Lethbridge has, for a number of years, been studying various phases of sheep production and in this study has included studies of wool production.

Detailed data have been kept of wool yields from individual sheep that the age of sheep has a very definite effect on yield. It is, of course, generally recognized that a two-shear sheep will produce more wool than a shearingling despite the slightly greater growing period in the shearingling. However, it may not be common knowledge just how great this difference is, nor how increase of age in sheep affects yield, therefore the following table may be of interest to sheep producers generally. It provides data from the Canadian Cariboue band at the station, but the same conditions would apply in general to other breeds as well.

A press dispatch gives news of the death, at the age of 80 years, of Thomas G. Ticker. This may not mean much to the young generation but to their elders Ticker was a name to conjure with during the days of the Great War. Thomas Ticker is described in the dispatch as a Jim anemie, but the crowning glory of Ticker's career was the supplying of humans, indeed it might be said overwhelming quantities of "Pump and Apple" Jim to the expeditionary forces overseas. This preponderance over any other notable delivery led to the troops, furnished the object of one of Capt. Bickel's most well-known cartoons. "The 'J' will be strawberry" and was the source of much merriment during the war.

by the troops, in billies or on the march, of variants on the theme:
"Times at night, when I'm asleep
I'm dreaming that I am Bathing my poor old feet in
In Tommy Tickers' beer."

However, whatever else failed, it can be truthfully said that plum and apple was always on the job. The question of who won the war is not yet settled—we know, at least, that the various claims. The strongest of these claims—the "corksneak," the Navy, the Wang's, etc.—a claim on behalf of Tommy Tucker's plum and apple has the merit that it fought with the British at Mons, in 1914, and was present with the Canadians in that city at the Armistice of 1918, a record probably not to be equalled.

In Memoriam

Skippers—In loving memory of Mr. H.
Skippers, who passed away February 4th, 1938.

He was a good man, and a fine every day man.

We think of him, and speak of him,
And miss him every day.

Not dead to us, we live him still.
Not lost, but gone before.

We live with him in memory,
And will for evermore.

Entered by his loving wife, Mrs. H.
Skippers, and Family.

Delia

Delia, the town of the future, is now for the solution of the problem of the future. The U.F.A. has made elaborate plans for a single arrangement for a single election in each rural district, and a matter for consideration. What is not a matter for consideration is the fact that if such is not accomplished, the way lies open to the U.F.A. for further demonstrations, the ordinary voter,
who has nothing to gain from either Liberal or U.F.A., will only stand by and see that the U.F.A.
will give him a chance to attain a long and fruitful career, via, the U.F.A. will give him a chance to attain a government in Delia.

The federal minister for the district, Victor, is reported to have declared, when passing Winnipeg recently, that "if Alberta comes to the Supreme Court and goes to the privy council."
Quite so; Mr. Mackenzie-King will long ago that whenever the court meets, the matter will be taken by the Dominion government to the privy council.

Our federal representative is not alone in his remarks that the Social Credit movement is "just a strong on air," as my rural district. "Does he forgetting the distant history of the movement?"

Continuing the perhaps the man who signed his name to the movement.
